Odell Beckham Jr. will reportedly undergo a special Phoenix Thera-Lase treatment on his injured ankle prior to the New York Giants third preseason game.

According to NFL.com's Gil Brandt, Beckham will undergo the treatment on Friday. This is only the first phase of the special treatment. This is also the same treatment that former NFL player Jared Allen received before suiting up for Super Bowl 50.

The Giants have been mum on Beckham's injury status and he has officially been diagnosed with a sprained ankle. Beckham hasn't practiced since injuring his ankle on Monday, but he was seen riding a bike at the Giants facility as the team practiced on Thursday.
